Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Grand Baby Show: An Entertainment for Little Folks Judge (enters and speaks). Ladies and Gentlemen: I am sure you have often heard of a baby show to which all the fond mothers from far and near bring their little darlings, dressed in their prettiest. Well, we are going to have just such an exhibition here this evening. A handsome gold locket and chain will be given to the beauty of the show. The most amusing part of the entertainment is that each proud mamma thinks her own babe the handsomest, and expects to get the prize. Only one among all the eager mothers that come here this evening will be made happy, while the rest will be most indignant and consider their beautiful darlings slighted. The audience will please keep perfectly quiet, because babies are easily frightened, and many of the little cherubs that are to be on exhibition this evening have never been away from home before. I promise you this is to be the grandest baby show ever given. [Judge stands aside to left as Mothers enter from right, singing We Come, etc. One of the Mothers is leader, the others follow in twos. The leader carries the baby that is to receive the prize. All march round the stage once, to centre of rear, then to the front, where leader stands, her back to audience. Couples separate and form a circle right and left of leader, march in circles two or three times. Leader faces the audience as the last couple separate, and stands in centre, marking time with feet during the march; after third circle is made, first couple take...
